EARLY MORNING FIRE, DOYLESTOWN, ESTIMATED $15,000

Is Eightieth Incendiary Barn Fire Within Four Months

WOMAN ORDERED ON

Miss Shellenberger Notifies Residents of Adjacent Property

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 12—The eighth barn fire of incendiary origin in Bucks County during the past four months early today destroyed a barn on the Maple Lane farm owned by Henry Hopp, one mile south of here with loss estimated at $15,000.

Mary Shellenberger, 25, of Doylestown, a guard at a Philadelphia swimming pool, was ordered to "move on and keep your mouth shut" by two men who leaped to the running board of her car when she attempted to stop and arouse the occupants of the farm.

Miss Shellenberger drove on to the next farm, notified persons there of the fire, called state police at Newtown and collapsed. She said the men who leaped aboard her car were poorly dressed and that she did not see them clearly in the darkness.

The fire destroyed machinery owned by Edward Hopp, son of the proprietor of the farm, who is a building contractor.

Fete Miss Alice Booz After Meeting of A Lodge Here

Following business meeting of the P. O. of A. Lodge, in the F. P. A. hall last evening, a miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Miss Alice Booz, Emilie.

There were 35 present. The room was decorated as a spider-web and on the end of each string was a card containing a verse, telling Miss Booz of the hidden gifts. Radio was played, followed by refreshments.

The camp members also presented Miss Booz with a table lamp and a bouquet of flowers.

Friends of Mrs. A. Popkin, Mill street, tendered her a surprise birthday party Tuesday evening.

The guests presented Mrs. Popkin with gifts, and all played bridge. Favors were awarded to Mrs. I. Glazer and Mrs. H. Goldman.

A delicious lunch was enjoyed by: Mrs. L. Dries, Mrs. I. Glazer, Mrs. L. Smith, Mrs. D. Norman, Mrs. J. Goldman, Mrs. N. Hoffman, Mrs. J. Singer, Mrs. H. Straus, Mrs. M. Seigel.

TO EXPLORE CREDIT EXPANSION

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 12—Delegated with conflicting advice as to whether to inflate or not to inflate; stabilize the dollar or not to stabilize the dollar, President Roosevelt apparently is determined to explore every avenue of credit expansion before resorting to any of the inflationary powers granted him in the Thomas amendment.

He is moving now for widely expanded credit from the R. F. C. whose life will be extended beyond the expiration date of February 20th next; a plan will be announced next week for unfreezing the deposits in banks still closed with payment of 50 per cent. to depositors; various steps are under contemplation for stimulating heavy industry through Federal loans and finally, the government's borrowing capacity is to be given a thorough test by the decision to re-call one third of the Fourth Liberty Loan.

Until the result of these moves can be asayed and studied, the President will refrain from fixing any definite monetary policy. In recent weeks, he has been subjected to heavy pressure to announce a definite dollar policy. He has been advised that the uncertainty as to the status of the dollar sixty or ninety days hence is a retarding factor in the whole Recovery program and that business is hesitant over making commitments in view of this uncertainty. Mr. Roosevelt has listened attentively to inflationists and anti-inflationists and has kept his own counsel but it is now becoming apparent that he is going to "try everything else" before exercising any of the prerogatives over the law granted him by the last Congress. By the first of the year the success or failure of the present moves should be fairly well determined.

SOCIAL TONIGHT

The Dorcas Society, Zion Lutheran Church, will hold a social this evening in the parish house. Games will be played and refreshment served.

KELLY AND WIFE GUILTY

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 12—George ("Machine-Gun") Kelly and his flashy red-haired wife, Kathryn, were found guilty of the $200,000 kidnaping of Charles F. Urschell by a jury in Federal Court today and were immediately sentenced by Judge Edgar S. Vaughn to life imprisonment.

A hushed silence broken only by the faint whir of motion picture cameras fell over the crowded court room as the verdict was read.

Kathryn Kelly, a slim, narrow-shouldered figure in black, sat beside her husband directly in front of the Judge's bench as the foreman of the jury announced in response to a question from the Court that the verdict had been reached.

"The Court will receive the verdict," said Judge Vaughn.

Spectators were tense and a pall of silence enveloped the courtroom as the foreman walked to the bench and handed the sealed verdict to Judge Vaughn. Judge Vaughn read it and asked the defendants to stand.

"The Court will receive the verdict," said Judge Vaughn. Spectators were tense and a pall of silence enveloped the courtroom as the foreman walked to the bench and handed the sealed verdict to Judge Vaughn. Judge Vaughn read it and asked the defendants to stand. Kelly, the man who boasted he could write his name on the wall with machine-gun bullets, and his 29 year old wife, who stuck with him throughout their hectic married life and criminal career, sat side by side. She was pale; her lips tightly compressed; her long slim fingers closing and unclosing. She wore a black silk dress with red buttons down the front to her waist and a smart black hat of the latest mode.

Kelly, a heavy set-ex-covict, wanted for murder and robbery in several States, tried to appear nonchalant but his face was serious as the Judge leaned forward.

"Have you anything to say?" asked Judge Vaughn in a quiet voice.

"No, sir," said Kathryn in a low, tremulous voice.

Kelly said nothing. There was a brief pause and then Judge Vaughn said: "A jury in this court, after listening to and considering evidence, has found the defendants, George R. Kelly and Kathryn Thorne Kelly, guilty on a charge of conspiracy to kidnap Charles F. Urschell. It becomes the duty of the Court to impose sentence. I therefore sentence George R. Kelly to the Federal prison for the rest of his natural life. I also sentence Kathryn Kelly to the Federal prison for the rest of her natural life."

Kathryn's lips trembled as the Judge imposed the sentence, the maximum penalty. She had previously said that she could "take it with a smile," but when the Judge pronounced his fateful words there was no smile on her pale, drawn face. She was devoid of make-up. Before she sat down she turned slightly and seemed at the point of tears as she spied Pauline Frye, her 14 year old daughter by a former marriage, sitting in the front row of spectators near the reporters' table.

SOMERTON RESIDENT IS KILLED IN COLLISION

Motorcycle Crashes Into Truck On Highway Near Oakford

VICTIM, J. BRADFIELD

LANGHORNE, Oct. 12 — John R. Bradfield, of Somerton, was killed instantly early today when his motorcycle crashed head-on into a truck driven by Willard E. Kuhn of Hagerstown, Maryland, on the Lincoln Highway near Oakford.

Kuhn, driving a truck of the Federal Silk Mills of Hagerstown, was enroute to New York. He was released under $2500 on an involuntary manslaughter charge pending the inquest.

Dr. John J. Sweeney, Bucks County coroner, said he learned Kuhn had driven his truck out of line to pass another vehicle when the crash occurred. Bradfield was hurled against the radiator of the truck and badly mangled.

Bristol Man Sues For Divorce; Alleges Desertion

Two divorces in libel were filed in the Court of Common Pleas at Doylestown the past week, it was learned this morning.

Charging his wife, Adeline D. Smith, with desertion, Franklin C. Smith filed a libel in divorce, alleging that the desertion took place September 5th, 1929. They were married March 29th, 1929.

The respondent resides at the present time at Brook street, Bristol.

John F. Leister is charged with desertion by his wife, Anna K. Leister, who resides at 142 Fourth street, Perkasie, and has filed a libel in divorce. They were married in Lansdale November 7th, 1908. The respondent, it was stated, is believed to be living on Walnut street, Perkasie. The alleged desertion took place in 1931.

At Soviet Stratosphere Ascent

A scene at Moscow air field as the Soviet stratosphere, U. S. S. R., commanded by George Prokofiev (above), started the climb to the stratosphere that broke all previous records by attaining an altitude of 11.8 miles. Note that the bag seems but partly inflated. This is to allow for gas expansion in the sun. The balloon came back to earth 31 miles from Moscow with valuable stratosphere data.

REFUSES TO PAY BECAUSE OF POOR WORKMANSHIP

Action Grows Out of Breaking Of a Trailer Which Was Shortened

WELDED PART FAILED

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 12—W. Russell Gerstlauer, County Seat resident, who is the defendant in an appeal in which the plaintiff, William C. Schrader claims the sum of $137.50 with interest from December 31, 1931, took the stand on Tuesday afternoon in civil court here.

According to the statement of claim, the plaintiff agreed to cut a trailer, belonging to the defendant, to a shorter length, for which he was to receive $375. The plaintiff alleges he cut the trailer according to the specifications given by the defendant and delivered the trailer to him.

Gerstlauer told the court the trailer broke in half at Pearlman, N. Y., because a poor grade of welding workmanship had been used.

The trailer, which was loaded with cars, was removed to a Nyack, N. Y. garage and repaired. The repairs amounted to $237.64, he testified.

Gerstlauer told the court that the plaintiff employed "spot welding" instead of "straight welding" and that this was responsible for the break.

Robert T. Burns, Nyack, N. Y., automobile dealer, and a member of the same firm with Gerstlauer, testified the trailer had broken several times previously.

The break occurred January 5, 1931, when the trailer was loaded with four cars. Burns also testified the break was due to defective workmanship on the part of plaintiff.

When the defense attorney pleaded surprise the trial of Frederick DeBrino, New York City contractor, who claims the sum of $3891.78 from James J. Wolf, retired shoe merchant, who lives at Ottsville, was concluded by Judge Hiram H. Keller.

Webster S. Achey, counsel for the defendant, pleaded surprise when copies of the original contract did not correspond, and asked that a juror be withdrawn and the case continued.

The plaintiff, in the statement of claim, alleges that on May 11, 1931, he entered into a written agreement for the erection and completion of alterations and additions to the defendant's home in Tinicum township. He states these alterations cost $3891.78, and he claims this amount with interest from October 10, 1931, according to a court record.

With President Judge Hiram H. Keller on the bench, the trial of R. E. Brooks Company vs. C. M. Bristow, Inc., an action in replevin, began this morning in Court Room No. 1.

The plaintiff claims, according to the statement of claim, the sum of $1981.96 with interest, in addition, in another sum of $223.54, together with a ten-ton roller, including the scarifier and bull-dozer.

The plaintiff delivered to the defendant the ten-ton roller complete with the scarifier and bull-dozer.

Members of the jury include John B. Young, Perkasie R. D. 1; Evan L. Saylor, Fallsington; Mae E. Cornell, Churchville; W. Lee Wilhelm, Sellersville; W. Norman Freed, Richland; Dominic Roberto, Bristol; William C. Vansant, Hulmeville; Michael W. Wismer, Doylestown; Frank A. Wagner, Warrington; Samuel H. Everitt, Bristol; Walter Foerst, Croydon, and Sarah Conti, Bristol.

The week-end was passed by Mr. and Mrs. L. Smith and family, Mill street, in New York, visiting relatives.

TO EXPLAIN PROPOSED BOND ISSUE TO PEOPLE

Public Meeting To Be Held At Sellersville, October 30th

SUGGESTED BY BURGESS

SELLERSVILLE, Oct. 12—A public meeting is being arranged here for Monday evening, October 30, at which time the taxpayers of this borough will have explained to them the "necessity of a filtration plant and expansion of the water supply," which proposed improvement will necessitate a loan of $35,000.

The public meeting was suggested by Burgess J. A. Kooker, in view of the fact that many voters may go to the polls in November without proper information regarding the bond issue. If the bond issue passes public approval at the coming election, the filter plant and other water improvements will be started about the middle of December.

This will not only mean a permanent asset to Sellersville in the way of purifying drinking water and providing ample fire protection, but it will take care of many immediate needs by furnishing employment for nearly fifty local laborers over a period of five months.

Specifications for the improvement were presented to the State Board of Examiners by Francis Friel, of Albright & Friel, Inc. Mr. Friel, who drew up the plans, said he was informed by the chairman of the board that the specifications seemed to be quite complete and that they will receive immediate attention since water projects are given preference. If they are approved by the State, thirty per cent of the total cost of the project will be paid for by the government and in addition, Council will be authorized to float the loan.

The project is self-liquidating. This means that the annual surplus realized from water rents will be sufficient to take care of the issue. The bonds will be retired in thirty years without any aid except the water rents at the present rate. In other words, the issue will not require a raise of the water rent as had been anticipated. This was one of the main objections of taxpayers.

H. M. Freeburn, of the Philadelphia Department of Health, will be present at the meeting. He will explain the value of a filter plant in connection with sanitary conditions. Mr. Friel will also be speaker, giving details as to the cost and construction.

According to the estimates drawn up by Albright & Friel, $7,000 will be spent during the first month of construction and $10,000 each succeeding month. Bids will be let to local contractors, being awarded to the lowest bidders. Local labor will be hired at a minimum wage rate of 50 cents per hour. During the first month three skilled men and thirty-six common laborers will be hired, the second month, seven skilled men and forty-three laborers, third month, eight skilled men and forty-three laborers, and fourth and fifth months, ten skilled men and thirty-six laborers.

If the project passes the polls successfully, it will come as a Christmas gift to many unemployed because the work will start about mid-December and continue straight through the Winter months. The reason it is planned for the Winter months is because the water supply is best at that time. During part of the construction the catch basin must be emptied while the water level is being raised and the basin excavated.

William Pye in Letter To Mother Explains Maneuvers

The mother of William Pye, Garden street, has received a letter from her son who is a second-class machine gunner in the Coast Artillery and is stationed at Fort Mills, Philippine Islands. The young man, who for many years resided here, left here December 27th, for the islands, and in the following missive describes some of his work:

B'ry, E. 60th C. A. A. Ft. Mills, Philippine Is. Aug. 26, 1933.

Dear Mother:

We went in the field last Tuesday morning at 2.30. It was war maneuvers and we're still on them, although my gun is out of action until 2.30 this afternoon. It's 11 o'clock now.

The way things are arranged is this way—our enemy is the aircraft, and every time one comes in range we fire at it. Each plane drops a target behind it, the same length of the plane, depending on which type it is. A plane is considered shot down if the target is hit in a vital spot or set on fire, in which case the plane is out of action for 24 hours, and if a plane drops a bomb within five feet of a gun, it's out of action for 24 hours. That's what happened to me, a pursuit plane got through our line and dropped a dummy bomb and it hit in front of my gun, putting us out of action. So I took down my gun and got my ammunition and went back to the barracks and cleaned and oiled the gun. Then I got some sleep. I slept for about twelve hours, as I've only got eight hours sleep off and on in four days.

I've sent two bombers out of action by setting fire to their targets. You see, we have belts of ammunition with 250 rounds in them. We load them as follows, five service rounds, two incendiary rounds and three tracer rounds; that's the way every ten rounds are loaded. Also I got an observation plane, and I've used close to 1000 rounds of ammunition. I guess that's all for awhile. Now I'm going to eat and work on my gun, then it will be time to go into action again. Love,

BILL.

Dr. Gabriel Tucker Speaks To Medical Men of County

QUAKERTOWN, Oct. 12—Dr. James Collins, of Bristol, presided at the monthly meeting of Bucks County Medical Society held here yesterday afternoon.

Gathering at noon in Masonic Hall, medical men and women heard an address by Dr. Gabriel Tucker, head of the Bronchoscopic Department of the University of Pennsylvania, bearing on "Bronchoscopia, and the Diagnosis and Treatment of Diseases of the Lungs." Dr. Tucker supplemented his talk by showing motion pictures and lantern slides pertinent to the subject.

A chicken dinner was served at the Red Lion Hotel, after the speech by Dr. Tucker, with the business meeting following.

Plans were discussed for the observance of the 85th anniversary of the association, which will occur November 8th at Doylestown. The anniversary will be augmented by a public health meeting.

The toxoid committee reported that to date over 2,000 children have been inoculated in Bucks County for prevention of diphtheria.

NEWTOWN ARRANGES FOR ANNUAL FARM SHOW

Exhibit To Be Open 6 Nights From October 30th to November 4th

IN THE JANNEY BUILDING

NEWTOWN, Oct. 12—The Newtown farm show dates this year are October 30th to November 4th, inclusive, making six nights in all. The show is to be held in the former Janney building, E. Center avenue, the same place as last year.

Much interest is being manifest among those seeking booths, and twenty have already signified their intention of displaying their goods. The booth committee composed of Frank Fabian, John S. Wright and David L. Watson would be glad to receive a phone call from anyone who desires space. An endeavor will be made to provide room for all local enterprises.

Farm exhibit built last year was the best of the three exhibits will be under the care of Roland Porter, who will be assisted by R. Walker Jackson and others.

Farmers are invited to make exhibits of apples, corn, wheat, oats, rye, potatoes, squash, pumpkins, cabbage and eggs.

A card addressed to the Agricultural Committee, Box 771, Newtown, will insure space. There will be cash awards as well as ribbons in the farm exhibit section this year.

Committee heads named by Lewis Fitzgerald, general chairman, are:

Booths and building, Frank Fabian, John S. Wright and David L. Watson; farm exhibit, Roland Porter; entertainment and prizes, W. F. Swayze, L. W. Fitzgerald and William Morlok; finance, William Morlok; decorating, Roland Porter and William Morlok; advertising, William S. Tomlinson.

HELD ON SUSPICION; SET FREE; REARRESTED

Alexander Waite, Colored, Caught Entering House At Fallsington

GIVES POLICE AN ALIBI

MORRISVILLE, Oct. 12—A colored man held for 24 hours by the state police after he had been taken into custody on suspicion of larceny, was released and then within a short time re-arrested when he was found to have forced his way into a house at Fallsington.

Alexander Waite, 26, Philadelphia, was arrested by a highway patrolman at the Philadelphia city line Tuesday night and was turned over to the Morrisville State Police on suspicion of larceny. He was questioned and locked up in the Morrisville jail overnight. About an hour later, two brothers, Joseph and Adolph Schadacker, of Philadelphia, who were painting a large billboard along the Lincoln Highway at Fallsington, saw the Negro go up on the porch of Frank Watson, who has been confined to his bed since he was burned with a blowtorch about a week ago.

Waite walked to the front door of the Watson home and rang the doorbell. Then the brothers Schadacker watched him go around toward the rear door, and being suspicious of his actions they picked up hammers and followed.

By the time they reached the rear of the house, police say, Waite had forced open the screen door and was engaged in opening the inner door.

The painters caught Waite after a quarter-mile chase and turned him over to Trooper Thomas Brace, who took him before Justice of the Peace Krouse at Langhorne. Waite was held in $500 bail and is now waiting in the county jail at Doylestown for grand jury action on the charge of breaking and entering.

Waite explained to Trooper Brace that he saw someone beckoning to him from the inside of the Watson home. However, no one was in the house at the time besides Mr. Watson.

COLUMBUS DAY

The name of Christopher Columbus has not escaped the notice of debunkers of history. Ever the object of attack by theorists who credit the discovery of the New World to the Vikings, it has been even more bitterly assailed recently by a European critic, who endeavored to disprove every achievement claimed for Columbus, from making an egg stand on end to landing on South America.

But such attacks have been well-nigh forgotten if they ever attracted serious attention. The reason is, that the voyage of Columbus and his three little ships, the Santa Maria, Pinta and Nina, across uncharted seas, the days and nights of anxiety and almost of mutiny and the sighting after many disappointments of a little island in the West Indies on October 12, 1492, form one of the most dramatic pictures in history.

What does it matter if Columbus did not then realize that he had found a new world? What if others preceded him to its shores? If the Norsemen did what was credited to him, the world was no better off for their exploit. But that of Columbus, which is celebrated today, opened new continents and filled western seas with ships.

MASS FLIGHT PLANNED

A flight of 25 navy seaplanes to Europe next summer is being considered by the navy department, according to reports from Washington. The undertaking would be dependent upon the success of a mass flight of six or 12 planes from San Diego to Honolulu, which would be the longest over-water mass flight ever attempted by any country.

Impetus was given the mass flight idea by the visit to the United States this year of the Italian armada under the command of General Balbo. If the American plan for a flight to Europe works out, the project probably would be in the nature of a return visit in compliment to the Italians.

Such flights have a practical side in that they give rise to problems that might be encountered in the event of war. A less emphasized feature is the demonstration of military strength they provide. While this will not appeal to pacifists and is likely to cause such projects to be condemned by the latter, this should not cause their abandonment.

SYNOPSIS

The colorful career of "Big Jeff" Randolph, now a national football hero, has been traced from his humble home in tiny Athens, a mid-west factory town, through high school gridiron stardom that made him a magnet for scouts from big colleges and through two years of backfield glory as a superstar at Thorndyke, rich and historic eastern university. He's the idol of fandom, the pet of society, the envy of back-home neighbors, and "my boy" to his adoring Mom and Pop. To the former, he's still her little Tommy and to father, well—Tom's manners and clothes annoy the veteran glassworker who secretly, however, rates his boy on a par with Pop's supreme political favorite, Al Smith. Before Thorndyke had put a high hat sort of halo on him, Tommy's best girl was Dorothy Whitney, daughter of the richest and most important citizen in Athens. But in New York, Tommy has met Elaine Winthrop, society artist and daughter of a Wall Street magnate. Tommy spends most of the summer as assistant at a boys' camp and becomes greater than ever in the early season games of his senior year.

Everyone's talking of Thorndyke's coming game with "the Yales". Times are getting hard, but Mom doesn't worry much about Tommy, thinking of Elaine and her Wall Street father; she also thinks of Dorothy.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

Sometimes Mom couldn't help wondering about Dorothy and if she wasn't sorry she had been so snippy. She and Tommy weren't exactly mad; they spoke and all that; but he hadn't gone to see her when he was home in the summer. Cousin Emmy said they had run into each other one night at the Sugar Bowl and had talked real nice but were kind of strange like each one was afraid to take the lead. Mom couldn't say anything against Dorothy herself; she was always real nice with Mom and was certainly a pretty girl and always came home with the latest styles from over east; and she had a crowd around her house all the time although they said she was still going steady with the boy from Smithville. Mom saw him with her one night. He was all right enough but was kind of short and stumpy-like. Mom liked him. Men like Pop—and Charlie Whitney, Uncle Louie was kind of thin and scrawny and was getting hump-backed. Pat Flannigan and even Cousin Emmy's man was just so-so—but any of them were better than the banty rooster across the street.

"Well," said Jerry Randall, "it's the kid's last game."

"How about the Tournament of Roses?" Charlie Whitney asked.

"No roses—I have a feeling that the Bulldog is mad."

"It'll be a football game," Charlie agreed.

It was—although at the beginning it looked like another personally conducted tour of triumph led by the great Jeff Randolph.

Randolph kicked off and went down to tackle Harlow on the Eli 12-yard line. In two plays Harlow made five yards and then kicked to Barton, the Thorndyke quarterback, who was downed on his 40-yard line, in attacking territory, however.

"Now—let's go," Charlie called. Dorothy gazed at him fondly. Her Dad was a boy again at these games; for this much was she thankful to Tommy Randolph.

The attack was slow starting. Yale linemen piled up two plays; then they became too anxious and were off-side twice and Thorndyke was in Eli territory without half-trying. Luck continued with the Pilgrims. Tommy made six yards at center and an incomplete pass was ruled complete because of interference for a first down on the 28-yard line.

Yale was flustered and indecisive now. The Thorndyke attack clicked. Randolph and Barton alternated, carried the ball to the seven-yard line as the Pilgrim stands rioted. With fourth and two to go, Tommy pounded through the middle for five yards and a first down on the three-yard line.

"What was that about the Bulldog?" Charlie asked.

Jerry shook his head. Dorothy almost believed he wanted Yale to win. Dorothy didn't care much—but it was Tommy's last game.

"Touchdown!" the Pilgrim crowd called loudly.

Tommy bowled into the line. It piled up. The white-shirted referee piled into the crowd, came up with the ball, waved his arm frantically toward the Thorndyke goal. It was Yale's ball.

"Hm—Tom's not a fumbler!"—Charlie Whitney said.

Harlow kicked off on the first down. Barton returned 24 yards, diagonally, for a first down on the 16-yard line.

"We'll get it now," Charlie said confidently.

But they didn't get it. In four plays Randolph and Barton gained nine yards. Yale's ball again.

"And that," said Jerry Randall, "is what the sport writers refer to as the great Bull wall."

Charlie said nothing. Dorothy felt he was slightly annoyed at Jerry's attitude toward his own team. She was slightly annoyed herself.

This time Harlow didn't kick at once—he faked a kick and ran nine yards around the end. Working to get out of the hole the Yale quarterback mixed his plays cleverly—even tried a short pass deep in his own territory—and he moved his team up to the 40-yard line before he had to punt. It was a good punt. Harlow kicked and bounded outside on the Thorndyke 17-yard line. The period ended.

"Well!" Charlie Whitney mused. "Did I say this was going to be a football game?"

Neither side could gain effectively. The Yale line, encouraged by its two stands at the goal stripe, threw back the Pilgrim forwards and pounced upon Randolph before he could get started. The stalwart Thorndyke line was equally stubborn on defense. Then Harlow was hurried, got off a short punt and Thorndyke had first down on the Yale 42.

"Now we'll go—come on, Tom!" Charlie called.

Tom tried. He made eight yards in three plays. He had to kick and it was out on the 18-yard line. Harlow tried two plays but was stopped—and punted to midfield.

This time Barton gambled. He faked an end run and then threw a long pass down the middle; Randolph was leading it and started back to catch the ball—but Verger, Eli halfback, came across the field, beat Tom to it with a leaping catch and Yale was again out of the hole with first down on its 33-yard line.

In three plays the vibrant Bulldogs had a first down in midfield but the penalty threw them back to their 25. Then Harlow got off a long, bounding punt that rolled to the sideline, away from Barton, and out of bounds on the Pilgrim 23-yard line.

"I told you the Bulldog was mad," Jerry observed.

Again Barton gambled—he called a quick kick from running formation; but Verger, smelling the play, darted back, caught it on the fly and prevented the roll which is the virtue of the play—and Yale had first down on its 44. In three plays they were into Pilgrim territory; then Harlow kicked out of bounds on the Thorndyke 12-yard line.

"And so," observed Jerry, "our backs are to the wall."

"You seem to like it," Dorothy observed.

"No—but I can't seem to work up much of a passion against this threat to the fair name of dear old Thorndyke."

Barton tried a running play to get out of the hole but fumbled; Randolph recovered on the nine-yard line. This time he punted high and far to the Yale 48.

"Good boy Tom!" Charlie said quietly. Dorothy wanted to pat his hand. She felt grateful to Tom Randolph for the moment—in a manner he was pinch-hitting for her. Regardless of what he really thought, it was plain to Dorothy that, in his secret heart, that was Charlie Whitney's son out there on the field.

"Come on, Tommy!" she called.

But Tommy got no chance. Yale suddenly threw off its fetters and got hot. A 12-yard gain by Verger; a 25-yard pass on first down, fooling Tommy Randolph himself; two yards; seven yards in a twisting dash by Harlow—Verger again for five and a first down on the four-yard line; no gain and a fervent Thorndyke cheer—then the center of the line opened and Harlow bounced far into the end zone for a touchdown.

Appalled by the suddenness of it, Dorothy said nothing. Jerry's pursed lips were hard to fathom. Charlie was somewhat bewildered and a bit downcast. Dorothy had never seen much emotion in her father in the normal course of life. It was a bit odd that it took a football game and one of his employee's children to make her feel pity for her Dad.

Tommy was lined up under the goal posts.

It was, Dorothy realized, the first time she had ever caught him in an attitude of defeat.

Tommy was straining against it; fighting mad; talking to his men. The whistle blew and they swarmed out to block the kick but it went over their up-stretched arms. The score was Yale 7, Thorndyke 0.

"Well," said Dorothy, "have you worked up any passion yet?"

She was half-inclined to pounce upon him; Jerry was entirely too faithful to the college tradition of nonchalance; there were times when even a gentleman must be stirred. "I feel inkles," he confessed. "After all—"

In a very few minutes Jerry felt more than inkles. Harlow kicked off over the end zone. Thorndyke put the ball in play on the 20-yard line—and on the first play the zinging Yale linemen crashed through the Thorndyke line as through wet blotting paper and nailed Tom for a nine-yard loss. There was nothing to do but punt. Tom placed his men for protection, dropped far back and, though hurried by the uproarious Bulldogs, got off a high kick to the Thorndyke 43-yard line.

There the snaky Verger caught it, seemed trapped by the two Thorndyke ends but eluded them and was off through the filtered field on a ricocheting course that quickly brought him past the nine Thorndyke men who had gone down under the punt; only Barton, the last blocker, and Tom Randolph were in his path—he skimmed by Barton with the speed of a nervous eel. Randolph got him from the side and barely held his toe as the slippery Eli wriggled. He had returned 32 yards to the 12-yard line. Another touchdown seemed imminent.

The teams lined up—but before the ball could be passed the gun sounded which ended the half.

The Community Paper and Your Indebtedness To It!

The value of a newspaper to the community in which it circulates is inestimable.

This statement may on the surface appear to be one of bragadocio, but if carefully analyzed by the thoughtful individual, it will prove true.

A community newspaper is continually giving valuable service and support to every activity in the area in which it circulates. It gives publicity to the activities of organizations of a religious, civic, fraternal, social and patriotic nature. This publicity is not charged for, but is given gratuitously and oftentimes but little appreciated. Those benefiting therefrom, in a thoughtless manner, take it for granted that the publicity given is news, when many, many times it is nothing more than free advertising for the various organizations.

Column after column of free publicity for churches, schools, lodges, women's organizations, civic movements, and legitimately established merchants, informing the public that they have taken on a new line of merchandise or in some manner are endeavoring to better cater to the wants of their patrons, are given in every newspaper published today. The publishers of a newspaper do not expect to be paid for such items, and no charge is ever made therefor. Those receiving the benefits of this publicity, however, can and oftentimes do reciprocate in various ways.

The average community newspaper today has three sources of revenue upon which it depends for sustenance: its paid subscription list; the income received from advertising; and the revenue which is derived from its commercial printing department which is a valuable adjunct to practically every community newspaper.

The merchants use the paid advertising columns of the publication, and thereby recompense the publisher. Churches, schools, lodges, women's organizations, and those sponsoring civic movements, can pay their indebtedness to the publication for the free space given by placing orders for whatever commercial printing they may need, thereby showing their gratitude for the aid rendered by the publication.

Those who are interested in the community in which they reside or in which they have formerly resided contribute their share to the community paper by subscribing therefor.

Unless adequate support is received by community publications as herein set forth, the publication cannot prosper and render adequate service to any community.

Are you as an individual or organization doing your part in supporting your community newspaper? Are you using its paid advertising columns; subscribing for the publication; or patronizing its third source of revenue—commercial printing department?

As an individual you can do your part by making it your personal business to see that the publication which supports your organization is subscribed for; or when paid advertising is to be placed, that it is placed in the publication which has been generous in granting the free use of its columns; or by having your commercial printing done by the organization sponsoring the publication.

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc. HOLLYWOOD. . . . If all other negotiations fail, there's a deep, dark plot to bring Marlene Dietrich and Mae West together at the premiere of "I'm No Angel" next Thursday night.

Unknown to them until they read it here, both the stars are being invited to be in Al Kaufman's party at the Chinese Theatre and to go to a dance spot later. Meeting socially in this way, the famous pair are expected to shake hands and laugh off the strained relations that have existed since New York news dispatches quoted—Marlene says misquoted—the German star as saying that she had never heard of Mae West.

You may be sure the studio is not blind to the publicity value of such a dramatic meeting, but honest attempts have been made to effect a previous meeting.

Lowdown is that neither star wants to make the first move.

Just heard an amusing echo of that night at the prizefights when careless ticket-sellers gave Lupe Velez and Gary Cooper adjoining ringside seats.

When Lupe and Gary, a little fussed at first, twisted around and turned their backs to each other, Groucho Marx leaned over from the row behind and tapped the Mexican star on the shoulder.

"Pardon me," he said, "but have you met Mr. Cooper?"

It was an overnight change of mind which led Johnny Weissmuller to jump the gun on Bobbe Arnst and apply for the final divorce decree himself. Johnny told me the preceding afternoon that he was going to let Bobbe apply for the decree, so she could get the papers at her birthday party next Wednesday. Three guesses as to who talked him out of it.

Did you know that Gary Cooper has a brother? The star left Holiv-wood last night for a two weeks' bear hunting and fishing trip on his Montana ranch. He'll vacation with his brother Arthur, who's connected with the Federal Reserve bank at Helena, Mont.

Will Rogers, boldest of fun-pokers, attended Jack Warner's luncheon to the Naval Affairs Committee and twitted the visiting dignitaries: "You fellows just let a rumor get out that you were going to change the naval base, so everybody from San Diego to Seattle started to get up entertainments for you."

QUICK GLIMPSES:

Ben Lyon would organize all air-pilots in the film colony into a club and have flying parties. . . . Latest celeb to take up aviation is Dorothy Lee. She has 7½ hours in the air and aims to round out the required 50 and get her pilot's license. . . . Mary Pickford didn't forget her invitation to Wini Shaw, the Irish-Hawaiian dancer, to whom she introduced herself in the Beverly Hills Brown Derby. Wini, now a Fox actress, dined at Pickfair as soon as Mary returned from San Francisco.

It was a breathless moment on a Fox set when a group of choruses, rehearsing a dance number for "I Am Suzanne," made a mis calculation and tossed Lillian Harvey onto the floor. The blonde star received a 4-inch black and blue spot on her leg but was otherwise uninjured.

. . . W. S. Van Dyke, who is becoming quite a squire of dames, has been taking Florene McKinnon dancing at the Beverly Wilshire. . . . Garbo's latest lounging costume around the studio is grey silk pajamas with a long belted jacket. . . . Adrienne Ames prefers a cottage to the hotel at Reno. . . . And it was a nice gesture by Warner Bros. when he entertained two English girls, who have been writing him fan letters for four years.

Did you know— That George O'Brien drinks on the average of 15 cups of coffee a day?

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

IT IS good news to learn that there will be no need to curb our appetites for grapefruit this season in spite of the great hurricane damage. There will be plenty for all at moderate prices.

Celery is one of the best fall vegetables. Delicious as a relish, suited or in salads and also good cooked, whether buttered, creamed or braised. In addition it gives a most desirable flavor to soups and stews. Onions, beets, a few carrots, cabbage, cauliflower and spinach are the best vegetables for the coming week. Sweet and white potatoes are also of excellent quality. Some white potato added to mashed yams or sweet potatoes helps to give it fluffiness.

Frying size chickens are available at attractive prices and they can help to make an attractive Sunday dinner. Many markets are also featuring steaks, roasts and chops from beef, pork and lamb. Dinners, therefore, need not be monotonous. Make your Sunday dinner attractive, says the Quaker Maid Kitchen.

Low Cost Dinner

Shoulder Lamb Chops
Baked Potatoes
Creamed Carrots
Bread and Butter
Cottage Pudding Chocolate Sauce

Mrs. Samuel T. Heat, Jr., and son, Donald, Lafayette street, have gone to Beach Haven, N. J., to pay a week's visit to Mr. and Mrs. B. Anderson.

FETED AT BRISTOL HOMES

Mrs. Helen Collins, Philadelphia, spent the week-end visiting Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Collins, Cleveland street. Miss Emily Landreth, 1024 Radcliffe street, had as a Saturday guest, Miss Barbara Congdon, Portland, Maine, a student at St. Mary's School, Burlington.

Mrs. Annie Mundy, Newportville, is making an indefinite visit with her sister, Mrs. Katharine Boyle, Bath street. Miss Mary Boyle, Philadelphia, was a Sunday guest of her mother, Mrs. Boyle.

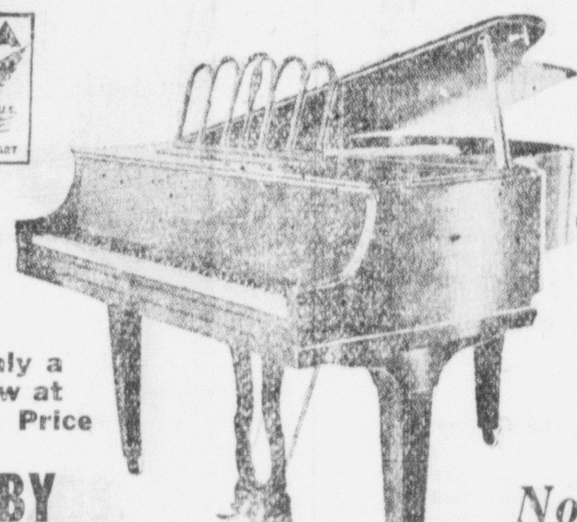

Miss Belle McGee, Race street, entertained over the week-end, Miss Sadie Walls, Philadelphia.

Mrs. R. Bakelaar and daughter, Cornelia, Clifton, N. J., were Thursday to Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bakelaar, 2007 Wilson avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bakelaar accompanied their guests to Clifton for the week-end.

TIMELY RECIPES

Salmon Souffle

2 tablespoons butter
1 cup milk
4 eggs
1 cup salmon
1/2 teaspoon salt

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour, milk and salt. Add the salmon, minced, with the bones and skin removed. Remove from the fire and add the well beaten egg yolks. Cool and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Pour into a buttered baking dish or into custard cups. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes—a little longer if a larger dish is used.

Salmon Cakes

1 pound can salmon
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon chopped onion
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 egg, beaten
Salt, pepper

Remove the bones and flake the salmon. Do not pour off the oil. Add the remaining ingredients, mix well and shape into flat cakes. Roll in flour and brown on both sides in a little hot fat. This recipe serves 4 persons.

Salmon Pie

Heat 2 tablespoons of fat, add 4 tablespoons flour; teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper and mix until smooth. Add 2 cups milk gradually, stirring constantly, and cook over hot water 5 minutes. Put 2 cups flaked red salmon and 1 1/2 cups cooked green peas in greased casserole and pour sauce over them. Mix lightly. Cover top with creamy mashed potatoes, using a pastry bag to give an attractive appearance. Brown in moderate oven.

Cheese and Salmon Leaf

Place the contents of one tall can of salmon and add one cup grated cheese. Add 2 slightly beaten eggs, one tablespoon melted butter, one-fourth cup milk, one-half cup bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon salt and few grains of pepper. Put in a buttered loaf pan and bake in moderate oven 40 to 45 minutes.

Salmon Salad

Remove bones and skin and mince one can salmon. Mix with equal amount finely chopped celery and one tablespoon minced onion. Blend with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

THIRTY-FIVE EXHIBITORS ENTER HORSES FOR SHOW

Thirty-five exhibitors, including some of the most fashionable stables in eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey, have entered their horses in the Bristol Horse Show that will take place Saturday on the Laing Estate here.

Manager J. Stanley Lee, of Newtown, announced today that the Bristol show has more entries in the hunter class than the Doylestown or Flemington shows, with some of the best hunters in the East to be shown. There is also a very nice entry in the saddle horse division. Judging will start at 10 a. m.

Among the exhibitors are the following: Miss Agnes Weisman, Delaware Farm, Yardley; Mrs. J. S. Chipman, Easton; Billy Chipman, Easton; S. K. Genzel, Yardley; Turf Villa Stables, Philadelphia; Miss Helen C. Cullin, Elkins Park; C. Frank Donnelly, Bristol R. D. 2; Dr. Ralph F. Merkle, Allentown; Harry W. Smith, Newtown; Miss Anne R. Freeman, Moorestown, N. J.; Bristol Riding Club, Bristol; Mrs. Edward J. Laing, Bristol; Harry B. Hanford, Bristol; Mrs. Florence P. Hanford, Bristol; Miss Louise Lawrence, Bristol; Miss Gertrude E. Murphy, Bristol; Harvey L. Selzer, Palmyra; Miss Charlotte Ives Montgomery, Villa Nova; Mrs. Welsh Strawbridge, Hattboro; Mrs. David Dallas Odell, Penns Park; George Person's Stables, Fair Grounds, Allentown; Samuel A. McCauley, Frankford; Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Quinn, Clarksdale Farm, Shrewsbury, N. J.; Mrs. Frieda Crankshaw, Allentown.

John H. Schilling, Croydon; Frank J. Hurly, Bristol; Miss Helen E. Vansant, Bristol R. D. 2; Miss Sara Granzow, Croydon; C. Ralph Powell, Jr., Pine Grove, Bristol; Miss Patricia Herring, Rothersbarrows Farm, Princeton; Captain and Mrs. C. B. Kellogg, Princeton, N. J.; Mrs. C. A. Gwynne, The Horses, New Hope; R. FALLSINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brown and daughter, Moorestown, were recent visitors here. Richard Brown opened the Friends' Bible Class and First Day School.

John McCrady, New York Art School, was a week-end visitor of his brother, Dr. Edward McCrady.

Miss Barbara Coghlan, Misses Dorothy and Betty Ashton, were Sunday guests of Miss Betty Dietrich, Fallsington-Emilie Road.

Frank J. Coghlan spent a recent day with his parents in Philadelphia.

Evan L. Saylor and Louise White Watson have been drawn to serve at civil court, respectively the first and second weeks in October.

The Epworth League, M. E. Church, will hold a bake sale in the library room, October 14th.

Miss Lily M. Moon spent the week-end with her cousin, Mrs. Mae Moore, West Trenton.

A "doggie roast" was held on the lawn of Mr. Frank Hartman's home on Saturday.

Mrs. Margaret Loughurst, Halmerville, was a Sunday visitor of Mrs. C. Y. Moon.

An all-day sewing of the Needlework Guild of America, will be held at the home of Mrs. Wendell F. Oliver, Oct. 15th.

The girls' athletic association was organized at Falls Township High School, Thursday. The following officers were elected: President, Isabel Spindell; vice president, Florence Carver; secretary, Edith Ivins.

BOSTON—(INS)—In an eight year period the Boston school committee saved a quarter of a million dollars on its book cost, by the simple expedient of repairing and rebinding damaged volumes. All year around four book binders go from one school to another touching up books, charts and maps. Last year 40,000 volumes were repaired.

HORSE TREATMENT

GALLUP, N. M.—(INS)—Navajo Indians in the vicinity of the Kinted trading post have learned that the field nurse sent out by the United States government is there to treat their ailments and injuries. And so, when a horse was badly cut in a barbed wire fence, they brought it to the trading post for her to treat. Mrs. Lydia King, the nurse, sewed up the gashes while the Indians watched in awe.

TREND OF THE TIMES

CLEVELAND—(INS)—"We want Sally Rand's fan dance!" This, in effect, was the cry sent up by Baldwin-Wallace College students when asked what they preferred in the form of chapel entertainment. Many of the students said they would rather sleep, but the demand for Sally's famous exhibition ran a close second. Tarzan of the Apes also polled many votes.

ST. ANN'S TO PRACTICE

The St. Ann's A. A. football players will hold their practice at seven o'clock tonight instead of the usual time. The changing of the time was made by Coach Mike DeRisi so the players will finish their drills in time to go to the Bristol High School to hear Coach Lud Wray. St. Ann's plays the Wilbur A. A., of Trenton, on St. Ann's field, Sunday.

IN THE SPORT REALM THROUGHOUT PENNA.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12—(INS)—Waite Hoyt, former New York Yankee, pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 2-0 victory over Brooklyn on September 12 to join five other present-day major league hurlers who have two hundred or more triumphs in their all-time records.

Hoyt, making a strong comeback with the Pirates after little success with other clubs in both leagues since being cut loose three summers ago by the Yanks, showed some of his former skill in permitting the Dodgers only four infield singles to capture his two-hundredth big league victory.

Other veteran pitchers who share the distinction are Eppa Rixey, Cincinnati, 266; Burleigh Grimes, St. Louis Cards, 265; Urban Faber, Chicago White Sox, 252; Herb Pennock, New York Yanks, 236; and Sam Jones, Chicago, 221.

Defeats set off against Hoyt's record number 147. Hoyt got his first big time job back in 1916 when the Yanks signed him to a contract at the tender age of 16. His brilliant pitching for a Brooklyn high school nine earned him the identification of "schoolboy wonder."

What Coach Elmer Layden's Duquesne University dukes lack in scrimmage power on the gridiron they more than make up in cleverness.

Coach Layden's team is full of tricks. All players are versed in the principles of outsmarting the opponent, but one—Clifford "Swede" Johnson—holds an advantage over his teammates in that art.

Johnson, a towering tackle from Sioux City, Ia., can do more than just hide the pigskin. He makes it disappear. He does the stunt with his performance as a magician. It's helping to earn money for his education.

Better late than never! Apparently that was the motive for the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League directors' decision to rule on a basketball title dispute after the matter dragged for ten years.

Homestead High won the 1922-23 tournament, but Monessen High, another entry, charged one player in the Homestead quintet was not within the fixed age limit and, laid claim to the title because its record was next best. The winners have offered affidavits in proof that the age of the player in question was "right."

Discussions relative to the situation were brought up at nearly every meeting. There was no definite decision, however, until the officials' first meeting of the current school year when Homestead and Monessen were declared joint titleholders.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 12—(INS)—All football coaches find it hard to decide which of the excess candidates should be "cut" from the squad and which should be retained when pre-season training concludes.

For Coach McKerrhan, of Morris Township High School, there will not be that displeasure this year of having to tell a player that he is not to report for practice any longer.

Coach McKerrhan's worry at the moment is to find at least one more husky boy if he expects to put a full team on the field for the first game. When he called for candidates only ten youths came out.

HOLLYWOOD

—They say that any old friend can make a touch off Mae West, but the blonde star's latest gesture had more than the usual amount of sentiment attached to it.

It was the sort of a kindness, too, that only a woman and an actress would have thought of.

For a long time now, Eva Tanguay has been ill in Hollywood and down on her luck. Mae heard about it and did the usual thing. She took the woman who had known beauty and luxury to the hair-dressers and had them fix her a smart coiffure. Then she bought Eva a complete wardrobe.

What some people never knew and others have forgotten is that Mae West, 5 years old and making her first stage appearance in a Brooklyn Theatre, did such a good imitation of Eva Tanguay that the manager told her she could stay.

Mae remembered.

All jokes of the sort are credited to Samuel Goldwyn. They tell it that a star got temperamental and an assistant was sent to report to the producer that she had fainted off the set in a tantrum.

The film chief's face got red. "Go tell her," he shouted, "that I'll not have my stars leaving the set in a tandem!"

The Hollywood police force doesn't rate so highly with Francis Lederer. Seems as the R-K-O star and former matinee idol was taking a stroll the other evening from the boulevards towards the athletic club. The night was clear and presumably Mr. Lederer was feeling romantic. At any rate, from time to time, he stopped to stare up at the stars.

First thing he knew a detective was flashing a gun in his face and ordering: "Stick 'em up!"

As the amazed actor complied, the dick made a rapid frisk of clothing.

"No guns, eh," he snapped. "Then what's the idea of stalking that guy? I've seen you doing it for 30 minutes."

Wonder what's the idea? The nails on Marlene Dietrich's little finger and ring finger on her left hand are at least three-fourths of an inch longer than on the rest of her fingers.

Statistics are usually boring but listen to these. The costumes for 10 chorus girls in a number for "Flying Down to Rio" are made from 20 yards of thin leather strapping, 2 inches wide. Each girl has 72 square inches of covering.

Fig leaves grow almost as big as that.

QUICK GLIMPSES:

Those gasps at the Colony Club the other evening were from smartly gowned women who didn't remember that W. C. Fields was such a good juggler—y'see he was leaning towards them with a glass of beer balanced on his head.

Now what? Fifi Dorsay has been dining at Al Levy's Tavern with Max Baer. . . . One of the observation planes soaring above the awful holocaust in Griffith Park the other afternoon was piloted by Ben Lyon.

No late hours for Lona Andre. Her mother makes her go home at midnight, which is enabling Jimmie Dunn to get more sleep than he's had in years. . . . None of Young Stribling's friends mourn him more sincerely than Conway Tearle. The two palled around in London several years ago and Stribling and his wife and baby had been invited to be Tearle's guests in Hollywood in the near future.

Frank Melton, that boy from Pineapple, Alabama, has talked himself into a good part in the new Will Rogers picture. Between times, he works in a service station.

Alice Terry and Ramon Novarro have been talking over the old days in a booth at Sardi's.

And Gene Fowler, who is leading the quietest of lives on his present trip to Hollywood, puts it this way: "We've got to keep the movies in the rut, so we can all keep working."

DID YOU KNOW—That Will Rogers has to go on diets to keep his screen figure?
